

BUSINESS

Peek inside new $24 million Corona del Mar home with wine lounge under a see-through swimming pool

The newly built home with the see-through pool cantilevered above the living space hit the market this month. It has 10,168 square feet, six bedrooms and seven bathrooms. (Photo by Blake Richards)

By MARILYN KALFUS |
mkalfus@scng.com | Orange County

8 COMMENTS

Register

October 20, 2017 at 8:00 am

As you sip your premium wine in the lounge, a swimmer glides through the water directly above you, encased in an infinity-edge pool with a see-through, glass bottom.

It's not a fantasy – if you have $24 million.

That's the asking price on a newly constructed house in Cameo Shores, where builders lately are digging down and adding subterranean levels to maximize space.

A height restriction in the oceanfront Corona del Mar neighborhood of mostly single story homes has given way to some creative ideas.

On the same street in June, a newly built 8,341-square-foot house with a large glass window to admire the Tesla Model X in the garage from inside the home sold for $11.6 million (car not included).

The new home with the see-through pool cantilevered above the living space hit the market this month. It has 10,168 square feet, six bedrooms and seven bathrooms.

Designed by architect Chris Brandon and built by Spinnaker Development, the house at 4501 Camden Drive is entered through a 12-foot mahogany door with a hydraulic pivot.

In the kitchen are top-of-the-line Wolf, Sub-Zero and Bosch appliances and Lumix countertops; there's also a butler's kitchen.

The master's suite includes a pop-up television cabinet, round soaking tub and steam shower. The lower level boasts a movie theater with a 137-inch screen and acoustic paneling, as well as a six-screen media room, large, sleek bar, and a walk-in wine cellar and lounge.

Ron Millar of Arbor Real Estate is the listing agent.

Did you miss?

Going underground: See O.C. homes with tricked out subterranean spaces

CARchitecture: Newport Beach house for $12.9 million has an auto lover's perk

See more Hot Homes here

Tags: Hot Homes,
Real Estate,
Top Stories OCR

SPONSORED CONTENT

What Adolf Hitler's Doctor Wrote In His

Journal Will Shock You

By Health Response

Most Evil Man In History
Thought He'd Take This To His Grave

Marilyn Kalfus

Marilyn Kalfus covers news, issues, and trends for The Orange County Register's award-winning Sunday Real Estate section, which in 2015 and 2017 snagged the top prize for best U.S. newspaper real estate section from the National Association of Real Estate Editors. She also writes stories, edits photos and puts together slideshows for our popular Hot Homes feature about iconic, big-ticket and unusual properties on the market. On weekends, she edits police, breaking news and general assignment reporters.

Follow Marilyn Kalfus @mkalfus